INVESTOR PRESENTATION

JUNE 2018

THE FOUNDER

OMAR JOHNSON
Founder and CEO

Omar was the former CMO of Beats by Dre, where he drove revenue growth from $20M to over $1.5B, and led Beats to global market dominance.

After a $3 billion acquisition by Apple, he served as Apple's VP of Marketing, and continued as Beat's CMO. He worked on the integration of Beats and Beats music, which later became Apple Music.

During his time at Nike, he produced some of the most dynamic advertising campaigns with Kobe Bryant and LeBron James. He brought together Nike and Interscope, Universal Music, Sony, Capitol Records, and Def Jam, to build the Nike+ sports music platform, effectively creating Nike's first revenue-generating deal with record labels.

Omar has created viral social media campaigns that reached 1.2 billion people worldwide; created and shared 9 million memes, and collected 27+ million video views and 13+ million microsite visitors.

Omar was given one of Adweek's 2013 Brand Genius awards. Business Insider awarded him in 2015 as one the year's 30 Most Creative People In Advertising, and then again in 2016 when he was ranked #11 on their list of The Top 50 Most Innovative Marketing Officers In The World.

ADDRESSABLE MARKET – GROWTH OF BARS & POWDERS

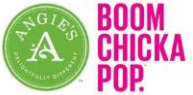

The Snack, Nutrition, and Performance bar category is a $6.7B market (2016) that will reach $8.2B by 2021

The Nutrition & Performance Drink category is a $14.2B market (2016) that will grow modestly to $18.3B in 2021

Increasing demand for health and wellness products is expected to drive the global protein bar market. Marketing campaigns of protein bars by fitness clubs as a substitute for meals has also skyrocketed the sales of protein bars.

"The market falls under the scattered market category. The players are region-specific and few in number. The players are making their mark by designing the products specifically for the end-users concerned." This is exactly what TRUWOMEN is doing².
